

2018 GRENVILLE CLARK AWARD

The Grenville Clark Award recognizes a faculty member or administrator whose voluntary activities serve to advance the cause of peace and human rights. For the past several years, the 2018 recipient has worked with Third Coast Percussion, the University's ensemble-in-residence, to create and lead a program called WAVES. WAVES is designed to include the arts in STEM education, teaching third- to sixth-graders about music composition and how to build and play instruments. In addition to connecting Notre Dame students and local arts organizations with schools that have high numbers of low-income students, WAVES has now reached communities across the country as part of Third Coast Percussion's tours. Our honoree has also been instrumental in the development of the Bowman Creek Educational Ecosystem, which is supported by the National Science Foundation, among others. Through its summer internship program, this initiative addresses issues of ecological restoration and community revitalization in South Bend's Southeast neighborhood.

The University of Notre Dame is proud to present the 2018 Grenville Clark Award to

Jay B. Brockman

*Professor of the Practice, Department of Computer Science and Engineering
Associate Dean of Community Engagement and Experiential Learning, College of Engineering*