2023 GRENVILLE CLARK AWARD

The Grenville Clark Award is given to a faculty member or administrator whose voluntary activities serve to advance the cause of peace and human rights. Jennifer Huynh is an educator and researcher whose life inside and outside of the classroom work together for the common good. Her students benefit from her deep connections to the South Bend community, particularly as a board member with the Neighbor to Neighbor organization, which aims to support the resettlement of local refugees. Her work fostering the organization's core value of intercultural friendships—focusing on connecting refugees and immigrants to people in the South Bend area to be community liaisons—is admirable. Additionally, with State Representative Maureen Bauer, she gathered evidence and data to advocate for the right to health care for asylum seekers and lawfully permanent residents in Indiana. She also volunteers her time assisting with asylum refugee cases. As the daughter of refugees herself, her voluntary activities, research, and advocacy advance the cause of peace and human rights in the South Bend community and beyond.
